THE NEWS-LEADER

E. L. DAVISON, JR.

THURSDAY, JUNE 22, 1900.

If some of the critics who are commenting on the apparent slowness made in prosecuting the war against Spain would stop to consider what has been accomplished, it would be seen that progress has not been so slow after all. It is only two months since war was declared and a great many important events have transpired. First came the capture of valuable prizes from Spain, then Dewey's great victory at Manila; the blockade of Havana; bombardment of San Juan; pursuit of the Spanish Atlantic fleet over the western Atlantic and Caribbean sea, and finally shutting it up in Santiago harbor; an understanding between the insurgents and Admiral Dewey in the Philippines, whereby they act in harmony but under command of the American; a similar understanding between Admiral Sampson and the Cubans, and the transportation of troops to the Philippines and to Cuba. Nearly all the 200,000 volunteers under the two calls are armed and equipped and ready for active duty. To be sure the end of the war appears yet a long way off, but nations are not conquered in a day.

The Court of Appeals has decided that the Third Appellate district act, by which the district was gerrymandered by throwing out Whitley county, is unconstitutional and consequently void. The decision will cut quite a figure in the coming race for Judge of the Court of Appeals. The gerrymander made the district almost certainly Democratic by throwing out the strong Republican county of Whitley. With that county in, however, the situation is very much changed. The district gave Bradley a majority of about 1500 and at the last presidential election went over 1000 for McKinley. At the county elections last year, however, the district figured up a Democratic majority. The result of the next election is considered a matter of uncertainty, to say the least, so much so as to make the Republican nomination a desirable chance and that of the Democrats not such a sure thing as it looked had the gerrymander held good.

The latest news from the seat of war is that the transports carrying the army under Gen. Shafter and the armed convoys arrived off Santiago Monday. Admiral Sampson immediately sent a launch for Gen. Shafter and his staff and received them on his flagship, the New York, where a conference was held to the landing and campaign against Santiago followed, participated in by Admiral Sampson and staff, Gen. Shafter and staff and Gen. Garcia and staff. No information as to the result of this conference has been received, but the opinion prevails in Washington that several days will be required to land the troops and supplies. The arrival of troops was received with great enthusiasm on Admiral Sampson's fleet, and in the maneuvers off Santiago the men on the transports displayed eagerness to invade the enemy's country.

The chances are that the First Kentucky regiment, in camp at Chickamauga, will be ordered to Cuba within the next few days.

to the patience to keep on taking medicine that does not cure. But if you are suffering from eczema, boils, eruptions, etc., you will begin your cure the day you begin trying

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Doctors Can't Cure It!

Contagious blood poison is absolutely beyond the skill of the doctors. They may dose a patient for years on their mercurial and potash remedies, but he will never be rid of the disease; on the other hand his condition will grow steadily worse. S. S. S. is the only cure for this terrible affliction, because it is the only remedy which goes direct to the cause of the disease and forces it from the system.

I was afflicted with Blood Poison, and the best doctors did me no good, though I took their remedies faithfully. In fact, I seemed to get worse all the while. I took almost every remedy, but they did not seem to reach the disease, and I had no effect whatever. I was discouraged, and I tried a friend's S. S. S. and began to improve. I continued the medicine and it cured me completely. I felt the only blood remedy for my disease. Although this was ten years ago, I have never had a sign of the disease return.

It is like self-destruction to continue to take potash and mercury; besides totally destroying the digestion, they dry up the marrow in the bones, producing a stiffness and swelling of the joints, causing the hair to fall out, and completely wrecking the system.

WAR BULLETINS.

Manila was still surrounded by the rebels on Friday and at the mercy of the American fleet. The American troops had not arrived, but the Baltimore had gone to meet them.

Gov. Bradley has been advised by the War Department that orders for the mobilization of the Fourth Kentucky regiment will be forthcoming in a day or two.

Over 9,000 Springfield rifles were distributed at Chickamauga Monday and among the regiments supplied were the Second and Third Kentucky. Orders have been issued for the equipment of the First Kentucky with forty-two wagons and 189 mules.

Maj. Gen. Miles has issued orders that will set on foot the concentration of troops at Ferdinandina and Miami for the expedition to Porto Rico. Immense quantities of supplies are also going to these points.

It is expected that a third call for volunteers will be made as soon as the men are mustered in under the second call. A long season of training is deemed advisable. Maj. Gen. Merritt is to have a total of 23,000 men in the Philippines and 8,000 more men will be sent to re-enforce Maj. Gen. Shafter at Santiago, while it is believed the Porto Rico army will also be larger than heretofore contemplated. It is believed the third call will be for 100,000.

A report has reached Port Antonio, Jamaica, from Santiago that the army of Gen. Shafter arrived off Santiago Monday, but that no attempt has been made to land. Gen. Shafter and Admiral Sampson held a conference, in which the advantages of various landing places were considered, and decided upon another scouting expedition before finally deciding upon plans.

The forces under Gen. Lee and the men now at Mobile have received orders to prepare for movement to Cuba. It is expected that immediately after the fall of Santiago a large part of the army there will move on to Porto Rico. The transports now there will be held in the vicinity to take the men on to Porto Rico. The plans of the war department now contemplate such a movement of troops to Cuba as will provide a well-seasoned army of at least 30,000 men for the invasion of Porto Rico, leaving enough force with the aid of the insurgents to hold Santiago province.

It is believed at Chickamauga that ten or fifteen regiments will be ordered south within the next few days. The equipment of the First Kentucky ahead of some of the regiments ahead of it in the camp indicates that it may be among the first to move.

Hobson's Heroic Achievement.

Add eight more names to the roll of heroes that this war has made. They are Lieutenant Richmond P. Hobson and the seven volunteers who sank the Merrimac in the harbor of Santiago on the morning of June 3d. Epic poems have been written about deeds less daring than that. Both the plan and execution of it were worthy of men of heroic type. The conditions were such as seemed to assure the certain death of all the men engaged in the enterprise.

Destruction threatened the Merrimac and its gallant little crew, as it steamed into the Santiago channel from three distinct quarters. First was the peril of the mines soon thick under the waters and ready to be exploded by the enemy at an instant's warning; second, the peril of the explosives carried by the Merrimac to be used for the destruction of the vessel by its own crew; and third, and greatest of all, the peril from the forts, ships and batteries of the enemy lining the shores at the harbor entrance, and certain to pour out all their fury on the ship the moment it came within range.

It seemed hardly possible that the men of the Merrimac could do the deed they had planned and survive. But they did it, and live to tell the tale. They dared the concealed mines; they blew up their own vessel; they passed under the withering fire of the enemy, and not a life was lost. The work they started out to do was done, and Admiral Cervera was safely penned within the harbor of Santiago. It is not surprising that the Spanish admiral, old soldier that he is, should have given quick recognition to such a gallant feat of arms by sending down his own chief-of-staff to assure Admiral Sampson that Lieutenant Hobson and his associates were safe, though prisoners, and that they would be treated with all the consideration due to brave men.

It was a chivalrous act of Admiral Cervera, and we expect to do the same by him at an early date.—Leah's Weekly.

Good Cheer and Forgiveness. Aside from the chants and carols of religious character there was nothing that appealed more strongly to our "brave forefathers" than songs in praise of wine and the vine. They knew little of Bacchus perhaps, but of the power of strong drink they were not ignorant. The word temperance in its modern significance did not exist, and as they stood about the festal board at New Year's, forgetting their enemies and swearing renewed allegiance to their friends, they lifted the foaming beakers and sang in strong, lusty voices:

Wassail, wassail, over the town! Our toast is a white; our ale it is brown; Our best is it made of a napkin tree. We be good fellows all—I drink to thee.

How delightful they are, those people who don't understand a joke, to whom the point in an anecdote is a delusion and a snare!

Miss P. is a clever woman and an excellent teacher. But the solid sciences are more in her particular line than anything which savors of the article called fancy.

Some years ago one of the children's magazines printed an amusing little jingle about a young lady at an archery party who became so alarmed at the promiscuous flight of the arrows that, in order to be perfectly safe from harm, she seated herself directly in front of the target.

Some days ago Miss P. was reading aloud from a bound volume of the magazine to some of her younger pupils. She read this jingle and coughed over it till tears came.

"Well, well, well!" said dear Miss P. "How true to life that is! I know hundreds of young people who are just foolish enough to bring their stools and desks to that very spot."—Philadelphia Press.

He Has a Reason. "He really doesn't want to be famous!"

"That's what he says."

"Do you believe it?"

"Well, yes. I know him pretty well, and I know it's a matter of conscience with him."

"I don't believe I quite follow you."

"Why, he wouldn't like to feel that he was even indirectly responsible for all the lies that are sure to be told about a famous man after his death."—Chicago Post.

Fortunate Accident. A large number of the world's greatest inventions have been the result of some accidental union of forces, the nature of which the person who started them neither understood nor suspected. The working of dynamos at long distances apart, when properly connected, was discovered by accident. A scientific journal says: "Soon after the opening of the Vienna exposition in 1873 a careless workman picked up the ends of a couple of wires which he found trailing along the ground. He fastened them in the terminals of a dynamo, to which he thought they belonged, while they were really attached to another dynamo that was running in another part of the grounds. The dynamo to which he fastened the wires was not running, but as soon as the wires were placed in its terminals it revolved as if a steam engine was driving it."

The fact that power can be transmitted for miles by electric wires is one of the most important factors in modern civil engineering achievements.

Hot Water For Insects. It is given out as a new discovery that steam, allowed to fall to a temperature of 120 degrees, will destroy insects. This is only repeating what was made public by the editor of Mechanica's Monthly 40 years ago, that water heated to 120 degrees was destructive of insect life, without being injurious to vegetation. The application, however, has been found rather troublesome, except where only a few plants are to be dipped in the water. People prefer insecticides that may be applied by powders or by spraying.

Maple Syrup From Corn Cobs. Clean cobs are boiled in water until soft. Then the juice is strained off and it comes out a fine quality of maple syrup, according to an Illinois exchange.

It is also discovered in Iowa that a strip can be produced from watermelon. Last season a melon grower in that state thus utilized thousands of surplus melons which in other seasons he has allowed to rot on the vines. The melon strip has an exquisite flavor, has good body and a beautiful color.

Two War Yarns.

Anyone who is not posted on the war should spend an hour some morning or afternoon on "Chataqua" under the trees in the court house yard and learn it all. Yesterday morning after the "board of lethargy" had reported and Hobson's feat of going into the jaws of death had been discussed for the twentieth time and each member had said he would have volunteered as one of the Merrimac's crew had he been with Sampson, a member told how a rebel soldier who went from Harrodsburg, raised enough money to bribe his way out of Camp Douglas. Two weeks after being imprisoned he caught an immense "grayback"—with apologies for the word—and holding it between his fingers, stepped to the barracks door where a pumber of guards stood and said: "I'll bet one dollar, all the money I've got, that this louse can whip a y dog-goned Yankee louse that ever crawled about in a blue uniform." The challenge was accepted by one of the guards who reached in his bosom and drew forth a grayback that the other guards pronounced a two-year-old and a beauty. The creatures were placed in the shell of a broken fiddle and the Confederate champion made quick work of the other. The sport was kept up until the rebel louse had killed 39 union lous, and then one of the guards got mad and kicked the shell of the fiddle to pieces losing the victor in the dust. With the $39 won on the matches the confederate bribed a guard, and after many hardships reached Kentucky and joined his command.

Then some one told of a Green river man who does not believe that there is a war going on between this country and Spain. He says the reports of war are sent through the papers for the purpose of defeating William Jennings Bryan in 1900. Then one of the Chataquans said that while he believed a little fighting was being done it was started as an excuse to get a large army down South to hold the people in check. So Mark Hanna could declare himself "empire." Every day fell over in the grass and a recess for dinner was taken.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

The Army's Food.

Food supplies may be obtained quickly, when one has authority and money to purchase them, yet it is said that many of the volunteers are badly fed. No such story is told of the regulars, who get exactly the same quantity and quality of food material as the volunteers. One important difference of opinion may account for the difference in food; regular officers believe an army fights on its stomach, while the volunteer officer thinks enthusiasm the first requisite of war. A company commander of regulars would be dismissed the service were his men offered food such as is set before some volunteers; so he sees to it that his company's cook is competent; men who cook for volunteers are usually men who are unfit for any other duty and untrained as cooks. It would not seem that plain meat, flour, vegetables and coffee could require great skill to make them fit for use, yet it is far easier in the volunteer service to replace a competent colonel than good cook. It is at the company cook-houses that the officers of the Inspector-general's department—the night-mares of volunteer officers—have their hardest work and, until they succeed, the sick list is dismally long.

A rebellion has broken out, in certain newspapers, against pork and beans as soldier-food in out Southern camps. If any two articles of food are more popular with the inhabitants of Cuba, Mexico, Central and South America, Egypt and other lands hotter than Chickamauga and Tampa, the Commissary Department would like to know of it. Beans, and vegetables closely akin, are the principal sustenance in subtropical countries that have not bananas or bread-fruit, and pork is next to flour, the largest American article of export to the said countries. Pork, beans and other coarse army rations may not please newspaper correspondents, but the army ration was devised for men who must endure long drills and marches and carry heavy loads. Hotel fare is sorry stuff for soldiers, no matter how abundant and well cooked it may be. Some of the complaints of insufficient food have come from Chickamauga, yet a fortnight ago the Commissary Department there had on hand more than five million pounds of solid provisions, a quarter of a million cases of tomatoes, more than a hundred thousand pounds of coffee, and was spending fifteen hundred dollars a day for fresh meat and vegetables.—Collier's Weekly.

The Balm is applied directly into the nostrils.

Black and Red.

It is well known that the colored troops in the United States army have proved very efficient in the service of the plains and frontier, but perhaps it is not so well known that the Indians are more afraid of the black soldier than of the white soldiers. This is the fact vouched for by an army officer who has been "interviewed" on the subject by the Washington Star.

"The cavalry troop to which belonged" this gentleman said "soldiered alongside a couple of troops of the Ninth Cavalry, a colored regiment, during the last Sioux troubles. We were performing chain guard—that is, hemming-in-duty,—and our task was to prevent the Ogalalas from straying from the reservation. If any of them attempted to pass we had authority to put them with our bayonets.

"The result was that the white troop often had to perform the risky job of forcing back armed six-foot savages with the bayonet and there were some very dangerous moments; but the black troops alongside had no such trouble. While the Indians were continually crowding upon the white soldiers, they let the blacks entirely alone.

"Moreover, the black troops obtained from the Indians less times as much general obedience about the camps as the white ones did. The Indians would fairly jump to obey the uniformed blacks. One day a black sergeant saw a minor chief, who was sunning himself at the door of his teepee, send his squaw with a couple of pails down to the creek to get water. The black sergeant walked up to the lazy savage and nudged him.

"Look ahead!" he exclaimed, "jes' shake yo' no-count bones an' go tote dat watah yo'self! Yo' heah me?"

"The Indian did not understand the words, but he comprehended perfectly the gestures, especially when the black man took the pails from the woman's hands and put them into those of her lord and master. He went after the water, and at an astonishing rapid pace."

During the Pine Ridge trouble when the Indians were on the occasion in line of battle the duty of charging them was confided to the two black troops. The negroes began to yell as soon as they started their yell went on increasing with every jump of their horses until it seemed to the listening white soldiers as if the air were being rent with the screams of ten thousand demons.

As soon as the Indians caught sight, through the cloud of alkali dust, of the black faces and open mouths of the charging blacks, and got the full effect of this mounting roar, they broke and fled, and were soon surrounded and disarmed. The chiefs afterwards confessed that the braves were scared by the awful howling of the black troops.

These black-soldiers can fight as well as they can howl. Their record on the plains has been one of absolute intrepidity.

NELSON NOTES.

From the Record.

County Clerk Boone Rapier Wednesday issued marriage license to Mr. Richard C. Lewis and Miss Kate Haviland. We understand the wedding occurred in Louisville yesterday. Mr. Lewis is a member of the firm of Arnold & Lewis, merchants of this place, while the bride is a daughter of Mr. James Haviland of the cooperating establishment of Haviland and Smith.

Burglars entered the residence of Dr. Ben Gore, near the depot, Tuesday night and stole the Doctor's fine gold watch, and several articles of wearing apparel. It is the supposition that the thieves gained entrance through an open window. They went about their work so gently no one was aroused. It is reported that thieves also entered the residence of Mrs. Barber the same night but took nothing. Dr. Gore and Mrs. Barber live in the same neighborhood.

The residence of Mr. Butler Thomas, of the Chaplin neighborhood, was entirely consumed by fire last Saturday. The loss was considerable, with no insurance. How the fire originated is a mystery. Mr. Thomas, who was in town Wednesday, is a remarkable man in many respects. He is nearly 80 years old but full of life and activity. He has suffered a series of misfortunes during the past year that is extraordinary. In addition to minor calamities, he lost by death, within a short time of each other several members of his immediate family. Notwithstanding his misfortunes, he is in no wise daunted but bears his trials with Christian resignation and fortitude and looks only upon the bright side of life.

A case of unparalleled brutality is reported to The Record

Baby Mine!

Every mother feels an indescribable dread of the pain and danger attendant upon the most critical period of her life. Becoming a mother should be a source of joy to all, but the suffering and danger of the ordeal make its anticipation one of misery.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

is the remedy which relieves women of the great pain and suffering incident to maternity; this hour which is dreaded as woman's severest trial is not only made painless, but all the danger is removed by its use. Those who use this remedy are no longer depressed or gloomy; nervousness, nausea and other distressing conditions are avoided, the system is made ready for the coming event, and the serious accidents so common to the critical hour are obviated by the use of Mother's Friend. It is a blessing to women.

A young man who lives a short distance from this place cruelly beat a horse to death one day last week.

The particulars, as reported to us, are disgusting and horrifying to the last degree. After beating the animal on a previous occasion until it was blind, deaf and almost unable to stand, this young fiend, in the semblance of a human, geared it to a heavy mowing machine, and because the half-dead beast was unable to perform the labor in the manner required by its tormentor, the latter assailed it with a club, and, in the presence of several helpless bystanders, who vainly protested with him to desist his cruelties, the demon beat the poor horse until it fell insensible to the ground. He then secured a rope and placed it around the animal's neck, and hitching a horse to it dragged it away before life was extinct.

We know the party's name, but withhold it on account of his family, who are most estimable people.

ENGLISH STUFFINGS.

Recipes Which the Sender Says Are Excellent and Not Found in Cookbooks. Here is a recipe for turkey and chicken stuffing which the sender says is very different in its results from those given in the cookbooks:

Crumble or grate the inside of a stale loaf or more of baker's bread, either a round loaf or milk bread. Add pepper and salt, the grated rind of a lemon and to a loaf half the juice; to 2 loaves, all of it; a little grated nutmeg, a handful each of finely cut parsley leaves and fine white celery leaves, thyme, sweet marjoram and summer savory, using the leaves in preference to the ground, and twice the quantity of thyme as of the marjoram or savory. Mix all together, dry and fill the crops, putting all the remainder into the bodies of the fowl.

As the filling is being done add small pieces of good butter, which, together with the proper basting, will give the dressing sufficient moisture. This dressing is also excellent for roast leg of pork when you do not want to simulate duck or goose with it.

"The recipe for the good old English stuffing for ducks or geese," the sender adds, "I never see in our cookbooks and do not find it used upon my neighbors' tables. People spoil these birds with soft bread and butter."

This is the old recipe for stuffing for geese, ducks or a log of pork: Take equal parts of parboiled potatoes cut into inch square cubes and onions cut up. Strain dry, add pepper and salt and leave covered to steam. Prepare enough of the mixture to fill the pores of birds with it and to lay some of it under the wing in the roasting pan. Keep this extra filling under the birds. Dish it separately and serve it at the table with the rest.—New York Sun.

Pure Water and New Boilers. The corrosive power of pure water on new or unlined boilers was well illustrated in the city of Glasgow when a new water supply was introduced from Loch Katrine, one of the purest waters in the world which are available for city consumption. The former supply had been poor and calcareous, and old boilers were much corroded with lime scale. To the dismay of the users those who had put in new boilers or new tubes found them rapidly corroding, while the old scaled and coated boilers remained as before. Those, too, who had removed every possible trace of old incrustation from their old boilers by mechanical or chemical means, intending thus to get, as they expected, the full benefit of pure water, were also badly troubled by corrosion, and even the old boilers were gradually and finally removed by the unvarying soft and pure water from the lake were more or less corroded when no means were taken to prevent it.

Expert Knowledge of Dressed Poultry. "They say," said a citizen, "that the expert poultryman knows at sight just where a dressed chicken is from. Of course he knows a Philadelphia chicken when he sees it, but they tell me that of western poultry, for instance, he can tell at a glance whether a chicken comes from Ohio or from Illinois, and so on. It's a fine thing, no doubt, to be able to do this, and still I should be satisfied to be without this refinement of knowledge concerning the chicken territorially if I could tell, before buying it, whether it was tough or not."—New York Sun.
